

Montpellier Business School (MBS), France, is recruiting 31 more full-time academic positions. If you are led by strong values and the desire to innovate, join us!

MBS seeks candidates in all fields for full time positions (assistant/associate/full professors). Candidates with outstanding records in PhD programs are encouraged to apply during the last year of their PhD.

Following its strategic development plan 2013 – 2014 / 2018 - 2019, MBS welcomed 18 new faculty members over the last 2 academic years. Having achieved with success the first steps of this plan, MBS is still recruiting 31 full time positions faculty members till 2019 for all of its departments: Finance, Control and Law; Marketing, Sales and Communication; Innovation, Quality and Information Systems Management; Economy, Human Resources and Diversity; Entrepreneurship and Strategy.

Successful candidates should have a strong record of publication in internationally recognized academic journals, proven teaching experience in one of the fields of the five departments of MBS and have good teaching skills. A promising 'pipeline' of prospective publications is strongly recommended. Experience in executive education is also interesting but not mandatory. The ability to generate research funding would be of particular interest in the spirit of our strategic plan.

The successful candidate should have a strong interest in the concerns of practicing managers and excellent communication skills. The ideal candidate will do outstanding research influencing both academics and practitioners.

Fluency in English is required. Although teaching in French is not required, speaking French and/or having a familiarity with French culture is an asset. One will be expected to acquire a working knowledge of French, for which the support of MBS will be offered.

Starting date: Review of applications will begin immediately and will be ongoing until the position is filled. The positions will typically open at the beginning of the next academic year in September 2016, though earlier recruitment may be feasible.

MBS is a French business school located in the South of France near the Mediterranean sea. It offers bachelor's and master's programs as well as an executive MBA program, and a PhD program in partnership with the University of Montpellier.

Our degree programs enroll approximately 3000 students each year.

MBS has gained and defended a triple accreditation (AACSB, EPAS, AMBA) on top of the French national accreditations, and is increasingly well-recognized in both French and international business school rankings. For instance, its flagship Master program was ranked 36th globally in the Financial Times Masters in Management over the last three years. It is ranked 10th on average in the French national rankings.

MBS is driven by strong values of Ethics, Openness and Diversity, Overall performance and Responsibility. Those values are present in the research of the School, the contents of programs and in the daily life and functioning of the School (Diversity Label).

MBS and the University of Montpellier share a lively and productive research environment called Montpellier Research in Management. MBS also takes part in LabEx Entreprenre, a research initiative funded by the French government for outstanding research clusters. Research at MBS itself is organized around 12 research groups and offers the resources to develop ambitious research projects.

MBS provides support for international admission and administrative procedures, moving expenses, and assistance in finding accommodation. The international atmosphere of MBS - with nearly half of its faculty non-French natives - is also helpful.

Candidates interested in applying for this position are invited to send a cover letter, a resume, a list of publications, a list of classes taught and the names and contact information of two referees to Caroline Cazi, HR, Diversity and CSR Director of MBS. Electronic applications should be sent to recruit@montpellier-bs.com.
